Farmers Markets

With the coming of summer, I always get excited thinking about all the fresh fruits and vegetables being grown. I grew up in Portland, and both of my grandfathers had very large gardens. I loved spending summer days wandering through them, picking peas and other vegetables ripening on the vine, wiping the dirt off on my pants, and eating them right there. I can still taste those cherry tomatoes and strawberries (and maybe a little dirt). With that being said, the Farmers Markets are opening, and the fresh vegetables are ready to be chosen and taken home to make your favorite dishes — salads, side dishes, or just eaten fresh and raw. Maybe even dipped in a little ranch dressing. There's just something about summertime produce that tastes better when it's fresh from the garden or market.

Great locally owned shop with caring & honest owners and staff. I have worked on my own cars for many years so I'm not easily deceived. I feel confident when the folks at Du Fresne's say I need a repair or service that I do, in fact, need it. I've come to trust them for service and repairs that I no longer can or want to do myself.

Once again, DuFresne's knocked it out of the park with their service and commitment to honesty. Being a widow and not very car repair savvy, they have been taking excellent care of me since my husband passed and for years before when we brought both our cars in. I wouldn't go anywhere else; Preston and his crew are simply

Portland beer week

Portland Beer Week 2026 is scheduled for June 12–21, 2026, featuring ten days of city-wide events, tastings, and collaborations highlighting Portland's craft beer scene. The festival offers numerous events celebrating local breweries and Pacific Northwest culture.

What is Portland Beer Week?

Portland Beer Week is an eleven-day celebration featuring educational, food, and beverage events centered around craft beer culture in Portland, Oregon. More than a traditional beer festival, the event highlights many aspects of the beer industry, including food pairings, beer-inspired desserts, artwork, design, film, and science.

While the event carries the Portland name, it also features breweries, brands, and companies from outside the local area. Activities throughout the week may include brewer's dinners, tastings, seminars, festivals, and games designed to showcase a wide variety of craft beer experiences.

The event was originally founded by beer journalists, taproom and bottle shop owners, craft beer entrepreneurs, and brewery marketing professionals with the goal of expanding beer education and promoting Portland's craft beer culture.

Secrets From Nancy & Tee's Kitchen

Shrimp and Clams in Wine Sauce

Ingredients

1 lb Shrimp-peeled
24-48 Fresh Clams-rinsed
2 Tbls Olive Oil
2 Tbls Butter
2 Shallots-thinly sliced
4 Cloves Garlic-chopped

1 Cup Mushrooms-Sliced
1 Cup Dry White Wine
1 Cup Clam Juice-or Water
1/4 Cup Cilantro-chopped
Optional - Sausage, Corn
on the Cob, Linguine, Rice

Instructions

In a large pot melt butter and oil, Sauté garlic, shallots, shrimp, and mushrooms until the shrimp is 3/4 done. Add wine, clam juice or water and clams. Cook till the clams open and discard any that don't. You can add sausage, corn on the cob-if so I would have them precooked and then just add them in time to heat them up. Serve on a bed of rice or Linguine. Spoon broth over the top. Or not!

Give that mower a new lease on life

If your lawn mower is a few years old and not running as it did when it was new, don't give up on it yet. The average life span of a mower in the U.S. is just three years. If an owner takes care of a mower, however, it can last far longer. Here's how to start: Change the spark plug. Plugs can erode, but replacing one will ensure a quick start. Then get the blade sharpened. To remove it, always start by removing the spark plug. Usually the blade is held by only one bolt. Sharp blades make grass look nice and reduce engine strain. Lubricate all the moving parts with a silicone spray. Spread a little oil on the wheels where they turn at the axle and on any moving parts on the handle. If the mower has carburetor problems, take it to a repair shop. For about $100, they will take it apart and clean it out so it will last you another season or three.

Fun Facts

Homes began adopting lawn mowers in significant numbers starting in the late 19th century, but they did not become a standard household staple until the post-World War II suburban boom of the 1940s and 50s.
