I received some marketing flyers from this business when I first moved in the area. It's weird, but something about those flyers made me feel like I wanted to meet the people there. I love family owned businesses! I stopped in and met a warm and friendly barista named Bridget. By the way, what a great idea to have a coffee shop in an auto repair shop! Bridget was awesome and filled me in on the history of the business. I didn't need auto work, but I wanted to support this business in some small way, so I bought a lemon raspberry muffin. I had planned to take it home and split it with my wife. I did actually split it, but it tasted so good, I ate both halves. Shameful, I know, but true story. Hopefully, I won't need auto repair any time soon,

To have a safe road trip: Prepare yourself, your passengers, your vehicle      You may have taken any number of long road trips before and think you know just how to do it right. When you make your plan, however, consider these points.

About your car: Obviously, you will want to make sure that your tires have plenty of tread and there are no operational problems that should be corrected. Make sure all fluids are at the right levels and there are no leaks. Once on the road, keep an eye on warning lights so you know if your engine is overheating.

About yourself: While you're busy with packing, calling to have your newspapers held and planning rest and fuel stops in advance, remember to think about yourself. Don't leave things to do that will take you into late the night before you leave. Get a good night's rest before you start. And remember that hunger and lack of exercise can contribute to the fatigue caused by driving for long periods of time. Before you leave, find out where you can stop, eat, exercise and nap.

About your passengers: It's a good idea to have one of your passengers be a licensed driver so you can alternate. Be sure to take any medications those in the car might need. If you are taking kids, then games, videos, and snacks will keep them entertained so they don't hassle you while you are at the wheel.

About other drivers: Know how you will react when another driver cuts you off or makes a rude gesture. There are thousands of roadway aggression incidents each year. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that about one-third of all motor-vehicle collisions could be traced to aggressive driving.

How to solve Sudoku puzzles

No math is required to solve a Sudoku. You only need logic and patience. Simply make sure that each 3x3 square region has only one instance of the numbers 1-9. Similarly, each number can only appear once in a column or row in the larger grid. The difficulty on this puzzle is easy.

Travel industry remains optimistic on cruising Of all industries, cruising has perhaps been hit the hardest by the pandemic -- unable to mold into an alternate version of itself, the cruise business came to an abrupt halt last year and has remained sidelined. And 2021 hasn't brought many answers yet. While other tourism businesses have watched their bookings spike, the cruise business languished under a no-sail order, wondering when it could start sailing again. As dire as it might sound in the moment, analysts and cruise industry experts are optimistic. Carnival Cruise Lines announced that its advance bookings for the first half of 2022 were ahead of those for 2019, despite dramatically reduced marketing. Its bookings for the second half of 2021 were in historical range, it said. Investors have shown interest in companies like Carnival, though long-term results are of course hard to predict. Investing in Carnival is a bet in favor of a global recovery, according to The Motley Fool, pointing to a surge in Carnival's stock performance after the vaccine announcements in November. And what about the destinations, the places where cruise ships dock and tourists disembark with cash to spend? Like everyone else, they are getting creative. Some have shifted their focus to air travel, encouraging travelers to fly in. Other places are able to offer small expeditions and land-based tours that sail for day trips.

Some cruising options have emerged overseas. In Italy, the MSC Grandiosa, MSC Magnifica and Costa Deliciosa announced two new ports of call. Crystal Cruises announced it will sail out of the Bahamas starting in July. And interestingly, on the flip side, Key West reported that tourism was stronger than ever there despite the lack of cruise ships.

The idea of an annual day to honor the U.S. flag is believed to have originated in 1885. B.J. Cigrand, a school teacher, arranged for the pupils in his Fredonia, Wisc., school to observe June 14 as "Flag Birthday." In many magazine and newspaper articles over the following years, Cigrand enthusiastically advocated the observance of June 14 as Flag Birthday, or Flag Day. Gradually, the idea was adopted in other parts of the country. Inspired by decades of state and local celebrations, Flag Day was officially established by a proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson in 1916. But it was not until August 3, 1949 that President Harry Truman signed an Act of Congress designating June 14 of each year as National Flag Day. In his writing about the U.S. flag, Charles Evan Hughes said: The flag is the symbol of our national unity, our national endeavor, our national aspiration. It tells of the struggle for independence, of union preserved, of liberty and union one and inseparable, of the sacrifices of brave men and women to whom the ideals and honor of this nation have been dearer than life. The first flag was adopted in 1777 and it had 13 stars and 13 stripes. It changed July 4, 1960 to accommodate 50 stars with the admission of Hawaii to the union. There have been 27 different flags featuring the stars and stripes, changing as states were admitted to the union. When the flag is folded in ceremony, it is folded into a triangle with 13 folds, each representing an idea. The folded flag represents the three-cornered hat, the kind worn by George Washington and others during the Revolutionary War. Interestingly, Flag Day falls in June, as does Father's Day. The 10th fold is a tribute to fathers who give their sons and daughters to defend the country. The 9th fold represents women, honoring their character traits of faith, love, loyalty and devotion.
